Investment environment

Despite equities generally regaining some ground in the final days of the month, the MSCI Europe Small Cap Index fell almost 3%. The disappointing month was chiefly driven by persisting concerns surrounding company destocking, a slowing economy and overly-tight monetary policy. This negative sentiment caused equities to underperform, with small-cap stocks underperforming large caps. In many instances it seemed like there were significant overreactions to individual company news in smaller company stocks, which increased trading volumes. Despite these issues, we still believe that a soft landing for the economy (rather than a recession) is still the most likely outcome. We remain focused on identifying companies throughout the corporate life cycle that demonstrate a track record of good cash flow and strong balance sheets.

Portfolio review

u-blox was the fund's top negative detractor over the month. The Swiss Internet-of-Things company issued a profit warning as a result of destocking at its customers, and consequently revised its earnings guidance downwards in August. The company also conceded that it can (and will) improve its internal reporting capabilities to manage inventory and communication more effectively. Elsewhere, cable company TKH Group announced disappointing results which it mainly attributed to customer destocking in its vision and smart connectivity systems. We believe that investors overreacted to this news and subsequently added to the position as the company's share price fell. Shares in Dutch bank Van Lanschot Kempen also performed poorly. We largely saw the fall in its share price as an overreaction, due to poor communication between its management and sell-side analysts. We remain holders. British homebuilder Crest Nicholson also issued a profit warning given a deterioration in its sales, which have been markedly affected by higher mortgage rates. Even in this environment, we still have confidence in its ability to weather this cyclical downswing given its strong balance sheet.

Pump and valve manufacturer KSB was the top positive contributor to fund performance. After its restructuring, the company has seen an expanded order intake and increased sales revenue. Analysts raised their forecast on the stock as a result. The German meal kit business HelloFresh was another positive contributor as some hedge funds were forced to cover short positions. HelloFresh's operating efficiency has improved its gross margins, despite rising ingredient costs, while its new ready-to-eat area (Factor) has been generating investor optimism. IONOS, Verallia and IVECO were also positive contributors as they each benefited from investor optimism over increased sales in their respective businesses. These three companies (web hosting, glass manufacturing and transport manufacturing) have been seeing tailwinds surrounding improved business processes and increased productivity with their use of artificial or augmented intelligence. We think this technology will continue to have an impact as these companies build improved services and inventories that will ultimately benefit their customers.

In terms of activity, we initiated a new position in Merlin Properties, a Spanish real estate company, as Spanish inflation has come down relative to other Western European economies. We think this is beneficial to the country's office sector, which we think could see a reduction in vacancy rates. The company is also in the process of building out its data centres, which we think should see an income contribution to its portfolios beginning next year. Disposals included Belgian screen manufacturer Barco, which we sold due to declining demand across its divisions and concerns within its enterprise division including ClickShare (its agnostic video platform which has seen margin headwinds). We also sold the position in Danish homebuilder HusCompagniet.

Manager outlook

We understand the general concerns facing small cap stocks, including liquidity issues and access to capital, as the economy slows down. We believe these problems are mostly short-term in nature and we are cautiously optimistic, especially looking at valuation levels and the risk versus reward that history might imply. We also think inflation will remain stubbornly high and that many analysts are yet to adjust their low discount rates to account for this, in our view overstating growth rates at certain companies. If our hypothesis of a soft landing does play out, we do not think labour markets will see wholesale changes to their current cooling from record tight conditions. We think European small- and mid-cap stocks are well positioned for any return to economic growth as these core problems fade and the market begins to ask what the recovery might look like.

What are the risks specific to this fund?

- When the Fund, or a share/unit class, seeks to mitigate exchange rate movements of a currency relative to the base currency (hedge), the hedging strategy itself may positively or negatively impact the value of the Fund due to differences in short-term interest rates between the currencies.
- The Fund could lose money if a counterparty with which the Fund trades becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations, or as a result of failure or delay in operational processes or the failure of a third party provider.
- Shares/Units can lose value rapidly, and typically involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. The value of your investment may fall as a result.
- Shares of small and mid-size companies can be more volatile than shares of larger companies, and at times it may be difficult to value or to sell shares at desired times and prices, increasing the risk of losses.
- If a Fund has a high exposure to a particular country or geographical region it carries a higher level of risk than a Fund which is more broadly diversified.
- The Fund may use derivatives with the aim of reducing risk or managing the portfolio more efficiently. However this introduces other risks, in particular, that a derivative counterparty may not meet its contractual obligations.
- If the Fund holds assets in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund, or you invest in a share/unit class of a different currency to the Fund (unless hedged, i.e. mitigated by taking an offsetting position in a related security), the value of your investment may be impacted by changes in exchange rates.
- Securities within the Fund could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, especially in extreme market conditions when asset prices may be falling, increasing the risk of investment losses.

General risks

- Past performance does not predict future returns.
- The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount originally invested.
- Tax assumptions and reliefs depend upon an investor's particular circumstances and may be subject to change.

Investment policy

The Fund invests at least two-thirds of its assets in shares (equities) and equity-related securities of small and mid-cap companies, in any industry, in Europe (including UK). Companies will have their registered office in or do most of their business (directly or through subsidiaries) in this region. The Fund will invest in small and mid-cap companies with a market capitalisation that generally falls within the bottom 50% of the Pan European market.

The Fund may also invest in other assets including companies of any size, in any region, cash and money market instruments.

The investment manager may use derivatives (complex financial instruments) to reduce risk or to manage the Fund more efficiently.

The Fund is actively managed with reference to the MSCI Europe Small Cap Index, which is broadly representative of the companies in which it may invest, as this can provide a useful comparator for assessing the Fund's performance. The investment manager has discretion to choose investments for the Fund with weightings different to the index or not in the index, but at times the Fund may hold investments similar to the index.
