Investment environment

As we have mentioned many times in the past, fear or greed can overcome markets. This quarter started with the former, with fear of imminent recession, fear that the problems in the US financial sector would spread and fear that artificial intelligence (AI) will disrupt just about every sector - particularly those which are service related. Investors reacted by selling the technology sector, which was seen as most at risk of economic slowdown.

AI dominated sentiment in May as investors questioned whether it will be economically beneficial or, as some have posited, become the ultimate threat of displacement to the human race. In reality, one would need a crystal ball to see a) how AI develops, and b) which sectors and stocks will be most affected (both positively and negatively).

The quarter ended with news coming in thick and fast. Artificial intelligence (AI) continued to be a hot topic, with most companies, when asked, claiming they would benefit from AI. While only time will tell here, this does seem overly optimistic in our view. Elsewhere, the European Central Bank (ECB) raised interest rates further to stave off inflation, and signalled the prospect of another rate rise in July. On the other hand, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) paused raising rates but confirmed it still expects US interest rates to be higher by the end of the year, although the market seemed sceptical that this will be the case. Towards the end of the month the Russian private military force, Wagner Group, mutinied. After a tense 24 hours, this ceased after a settlement agreement was brokered, and the war in Ukraine continues.

Portfolio review

One thing that stands out to us about AI is that data appears to be a currency in its own right. The more differentiated/proprietary that data is, the more valuable it becomes. On this basis, we have increased the fund's position in Relx, mostly funded by reducing some of the holding in Wolters. We retained a position in Wolters as we believe AI brings the company opportunity. However, we feel Relx has more valuable data.

Other trades over the period included (but were not limited to) selling the disappointing position in Bayer and introducing a new holding in Ipsen. We have held Bayer for some time, largely with the hope that the group would break itself up to realise value for shareholders. This seems increasingly unlikely to us, and with the potential for further environmental regulation around Polychlorinated Biphenyls (PCBs) we decided to sell the shares. We might revisit the opportunity should we see any indication that the company is viewing balance sheet realisation events more favourably.

Investment into the fund will acquire units/shares of the fund itself and not the underlying assets owned by the fund.

Note that any differences among portfolio securities currencies, share class currencies and costs to be paid or represented in currencies other than your home currency will expose you to currency risk. Costs and returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency and exchange rate fluctuations.

Fund charges will impact the value of your investment. In particular, the ongoing charges applicable to each fund will dilute investment performance, particularly over time. For further explanation of charges please visit our Fund Charges page at <http://www.janushenderson.com>.

Source for target returns (where applicable) – Janus Henderson. Please note the performance target is to be achieved over a specific annualised time period. Refer to the performance target wording within the objective. With effect from 1 January 2023, the Key Investor Information document (KIID) changed to the Key Information Document (KID), except in the UK where investors should continue to refer to the KIID. Availability of share classes shown may be limited by law in certain jurisdictions. Performance records/scenarios are detailed within the fund's specific KIID/KID, fees and charges, and the respective risk rating may vary. Further information can be found in the fund's prospectus and KIID/KID which must be reviewed before investing. Please consult your local sales representative if you have any further queries.

From 8 November 2011. The Fund changed its name and objective. Past performance shown before 8 November 2011 was achieved under circumstances that no longer apply.

Past performance does not predict future returns. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount originally invested.

Performance fees are charged separately as a way of rewarding the investment manager for superior returns or for outperforming specified targets. A Performance Fee is accrued where the NAV outperforms the relevant Hurdle NAV (subject to a High Water Mark). For further explanation of the performance fee calculation methodology please see the relevant prospectus, available at <http://www.janushenderson.com>.

Janus Henderson Horizon Euroland Fund

What are the risks specific to this fund?

- When the Fund, or a share/unit class, seeks to mitigate exchange rate movements of a currency relative to the base currency (hedge), the hedging strategy itself may positively or negatively impact the value of the Fund due to differences in short-term interest rates between the currencies.
- The Fund could lose money if a counterparty with which the Fund trades becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations, or as a result of failure or delay in operational processes or the failure of a third party provider.
- Shares/Units can lose value rapidly, and typically involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. The value of your investment may fall as a result.
- If a Fund has a high exposure to a particular country or geographical region it carries a higher level of risk than a Fund which is more broadly diversified.
- The Fund may use derivatives with the aim of reducing risk or managing the portfolio more efficiently. However this introduces other risks, in particular, that a derivative counterparty may not meet its contractual obligations.
- If the Fund holds assets in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund, or you invest in a share/unit class of a different currency to the Fund (unless hedged, i.e. mitigated by taking an offsetting position in a related security), the value of your investment may be impacted by changes in exchange rates.
- Securities within the Fund could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, especially in extreme market conditions when asset prices may be falling, increasing the risk of investment losses.

General risks

- Past performance does not predict future returns.
- The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount originally invested.
- Tax assumptions and reliefs depend upon an investor's particular circumstances and may be subject to change.

Investment policy

The Fund invests at least 75% of its assets in shares (equities) and equity-related securities of companies, of any size, in any industry, in the Eurozone. Companies will be incorporated in or having their principal business activities in the Eurozone.

The Fund may also invest in other assets including companies outside the Eurozone, cash and money market instruments.

The investment manager may use derivatives (complex financial instruments) to reduce risk or to manage the Fund more efficiently.

The Fund is actively managed with reference to the MSCI EMU Net Return EUR Index, which is broadly representative of the companies in which it may invest, as this forms the basis of the Fund's performance target and the level above which performance fees may be charged (if applicable). The investment manager has discretion to choose investments for the Fund with weightings different to the index or not in the index, but at times the Fund may hold investments similar to the index.
