

HORIZON EUROLAND FUND

At a glance

Performance*

The Fund returned 3.57%, the Index returned 4.45% and the Sector returned 3.80%.

Contributors/detractors

Holdings across the financials (ING, BNP and Unicredit) and defence (Thales) sectors performed well. However, individual holdings in BESI, DHL and Brenntag (which we sold) did not.

Outlook

While we are not expecting any violent moves in European markets, we would not be surprised to see some sector rotation, reflecting profit-taking over the short/medium term.

Investment environment

- The global peace dividend seems to be a thing of the past with continued conflict in Ukraine (following the invasion by Russia) and now the conflict in Gaza (following the atrocities in Israel).
- China's economic growth seems likely to fall from previous levels but government stimulus may help.
- Global interest rates appear to be peaking and inflation (while falling) remains sticky in areas.
- US equities have seen narrow market leadership over the last year and this is getting more pronounced.
- Climate change remedial actions will increase corporate costs and overall is likely to prove inflationary. Meanwhile, corporate refinancing costs have risen.
- A big and consistent question on the mind of investors is whether or not recession has been avoided. Markets seem to be betting it has.

Portfolio review

With markets, the destination is normally easier to predict than the speed of travel. Having established that over time company earnings generally tend to rise, then over time the benchmark index (which is an aggregate) should follow these earnings and also rise. However, the speed and degree with which any index will move in relation to earnings is dependent on the discount factor (interest rates) and how investors are feeling (greedy or fearful).

So what is this all telling us at present? In terms of the European earnings season, it is now over. While mixed, it was generally positive and consensus expectations are now for 3% growth in Europe in 2024. This is certainly no disaster.

With regards to interest rates, the jury is still out on the exact timing and size of any cuts both in Europe and the US. However, investors seem to agree that the direction of travel is downwards and that a recession seems to have been avoided.

Regarding the mood of investors, AI has caused excitement and the so-called FOMO (fear of missing out) is on the rise. If we look at the recent strength in equity markets, then most of this has come from multiple expansion rather than earnings and in both Europe and the US market leadership has been narrow.

Broadly speaking, we think this is a reasonably positive background for markets with the proviso that maybe investors are getting a little bit too excited about AI. Yes, AI will change things. And in many cases it can improve the profitability of companies. The question is, how quickly will this happen? Is it one, five or 10 years before we really see these effects? The internet took much longer than originally anticipated to really change economic returns and while the onset of AI may be quicker, some caution regarding valuations is probably merited.

During the month we sold Brenntag, Syensqo (a spin-off from Solvay), Rexel and Infineon and bought Bureau Veritas, Fuchs, Konecranes and Stroer. All of these purchases showed good results during the recent earnings season and look likely to be able to improve their operational performance from here. Stroer also seems likely to give a special dividend over the short/medium term. At the time of purchase all additions to the portfolio looked good value to us.

Manager outlook

While we are not expecting any violent moves in European markets, we would not be surprised to see some sector rotation, reflecting profit-taking over the short/medium term.

Fund charges will impact the value of your investment. In particular, the ongoing charges applicable to each fund will dilute investment performance, particularly over time. For further explanation of charges please visit our Fund Charges page at www.janushenderson.com.

Note that any differences among portfolio securities currencies, share class currencies and costs to be paid or represented in currencies other than your home currency will expose you to currency risk. Costs and returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency and exchange rate fluctuations.

Performance fees may be charged before the Fund's outperformance target is reached.

Performance fees are charged separately as a way of rewarding the investment manager for superior returns or for outperforming specified targets. A Performance Fee is accrued where the NAV outperforms the relevant Hurdle NAV (subject to a High Water Mark). For further explanation of the performance fee calculation methodology please see the relevant prospectus, available at www.janushenderson.com.

Additional fund information

Tax assumptions and reliefs depend upon an investor's particular circumstances and may be subject to change. Availability of share classes shown may be limited by law in certain jurisdictions. Performance records/scenarios are detailed within the fund's specific KIID/KID; fees and charges, and the respective risk rating may vary. Further information can be found in the fund's prospectus and KIID/KID, which must be reviewed before investing. Please consult your local sales representative and/or financial adviser if you have any queries. This is a Luxembourg SICAV Fund, regulated by the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier (CSSF). These are the views of the author at the time of publication and may differ from the views of other individuals/teams at Janus Henderson Investors. Any securities, funds, sectors or indices mentioned within this article do not constitute or form part of any offer or solicitation to buy or sell them. The information in this commentary does not qualify as an investment recommendation. Investment into the fund will acquire units/shares of the fund itself and not the underlying assets owned by the fund. The ongoing charge is calculated using the PRIIP methodology. The PRIIP methodology differs to the UCITS ongoing charge methodology, as the PRIIP methodology captures additional recurring charges, including but not limited to: Interest paid on borrowing (e.g. bank interest); Any fees incurred in relation to stock-lending activity (i.e. the fee paid to the lending agent); Any costs associated with holding closed-ended vehicles. Cash balances and exposures are based on settled and unsettled trades as at the reporting date.

Investment policy

The Fund invests at least 75% of its assets in shares (equities) and equity-related securities of companies, of any size, in any industry, in Euroland Countries (i.e. countries having adopted the Euro as their national currency in the member state of the European Monetary Union). Companies will be incorporated in or having their principal business activities in Euroland Countries. The Fund may also invest in other assets including companies outside of Euroland Countries, cash and money market instruments. The Investment Manager may use derivatives (complex financial instruments) to reduce risk or to manage the Fund more efficiently. The Fund is actively managed with reference to the MSCI EMU Net Return EUR Index, which is broadly representative of the companies in which it may invest, as this forms the basis of the Fund's performance target and the level above which performance fees may be charged (if applicable). The Investment Manager has discretion to choose investments for the Fund with weightings different to the index or not in the index, but at times the Fund may hold investments similar to the index.

Investment strategy

The Fund has a bias towards "value" equities. The "value" approach emphasises investments in companies the relevant Investment Manager believes to be undervalued relative to their intrinsic worth. The investment process combines 'bottom-up' (company-level) analysis with a qualitative overview that helps the team to control risk while seeking to maximise performance. The process seeks to construct a portfolio of companies with established track records that are priced at a level that does not reflect their intrinsic value or future prospects.

Fund specific risks

In respect of the equities portfolio within the Fund, this follows a value investment style that creates a bias towards certain types of companies. This may result in the Fund significantly underperforming or outperforming the wider market. When the Fund, or a share/unit class, seeks to mitigate exchange rate movements of a currency relative to the base currency (hedge), the hedging strategy itself may positively or negatively impact the value of the Fund due to differences in short-term interest rates between the currencies. The Fund could lose money if a counterparty with which the Fund trades becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations, or as a result of failure or delay in operational processes or the failure of a third party provider. Shares/Units can lose value rapidly, and typically involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. The value of your investment may fall as a result. If a Fund has a high exposure to a particular country or geographical region it carries a higher level of risk than a Fund which is more broadly diversified. The Fund may use derivatives with the aim of reducing risk or managing the portfolio more efficiently. However this introduces other risks, in particular, that a derivative counterparty may not meet its contractual obligations. If the Fund holds assets in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund, or you invest in a share/unit class of a different currency to the Fund (unless hedged, i.e. mitigated by taking an offsetting position in a related security), the value of your investment may be impacted by changes in exchange rates. Securities within the Fund could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, especially in extreme market conditions when asset prices may be falling, increasing the risk of investment losses.
